

EXHIBIT 4.5: States with the Highest and Lowest Rates of Unsheltered Unaccompanied Homeless Youth
By State, 2018

- States with the highest percentages of unaccompanied youth who were found in unsheltered rather than sheltered locations were in the western part of the country. Nevada had the highest percentage, with 1,177 people staying in places not meant for human habitation. California followed, with 9,920 unaccompanied youth staying in unsheltered locations, 80 percent of the state's unaccompanied homeless youth.
- Rhode Island had the lowest percentage of unaccompanied youth who were unsheltered, with only three percent.